CASWELL & CO. RAIDED.

QUEER BUSINESS DONE BY THEM ND A JERSET CITY CONCERN.

Postal Authorities Descend Upon Both Companies and Arrest Everybody-Ac-ensations of Forgery and Other Fraud Carried On Under Various Pretences,

Post Office Inspectors G. C. Holden of Philadelphia and Major Charles W. Lewis of Jersey City, assisted by the police, descended non the offices of a so-called publishing house at 47 Montgomery street, Jersey City, yesterday, and arrested the persons found there on the charge of violating the United States postal laws. Simultaneously, Inspector Benjamin W. Schopp of this city took into custody three men and one woman, doing business in the Arbuckle building, in Brooklyn, under the name of Caswell & Co., claim collectors. The same charge was preferred against them. The Government officers think that the two concerns worked together, as their methods of procedure were almost the same, and some of the many firm names under which they disguised themselves were alke. As it is known that the operations of the two concerns extended all over the country, and that they had agents and branches in other cities, Inspector Holden believes that the capture is one of the most important of the kind made in many years.

The headquarters of the Jersey City concern was in the office building at 47 Montgomery street, one flight up. On the door of the office is the sign in glit letters. "American Publishing Co." In the suite of three rooms there was nothing to indicate that a publishing business was carried on there. In the outer room was a plain desk at which sat a young woman typewriter, and another where a young man opened the mail and addressed letters. The rooms within were supposed to be the offices of the members of the firm. There were several directories lying about and a large fron safe, which; was locked when the officers took possession yesterday. As soon as they open it they expect to learn several important facts about the kind and extent of the business carried on in the place. / Although the name "American Publishing Company" was the only one which the Jersey City concern displayed to the outer world, mail was received there addressed to the Record Publishing Company, the Standard Publishing Company, the Union Printing Company, the Red Book Directory Publishing Com pany, the Traders' and Financial Record, and possibly others. All these companies apparently did exactly the same kind of business, and that business was not the publishing of directories, except possibly one or two copies for show. The general scheme of operations was explained yesterday by Inspectors Holden and Lewis, as follows: The agent of the concern would call on some large business house in whatever city he had selected for his field, and politely request the firm to renew their advertisement in "The Traders' Directory," which would contain the names of almost all the respectable business men in the country. The business man usually declined on the ground that he knew nothing about the publication in question. Then the polite caller, would express his regret, saying, "We are very sorry to have you decline, sir, inasmuch as you were with us last year. But if you don't feel like going in, would you mind signing this card of withdrawal?" The card of withdrawal was an innocentiooking thing, and generally served to secure the signature of the firm or its advertising manager. In due time the signature would return at the bottom of a contract for advertising in "The Traders' Directory." The contract was usually in the hands of an express company for sollection. There was no mistaking the genuineness of the signature, and in many cases the firms paid sums of $10 to $100, although declaring the contract a forgery. If they refused to pay they received a neat typewritten note asking if the signature was not genuine, and if they would not kindly settle the account and avoid controversy and possible liftigation. In some cases the entire operation was carried on by letter, but as far as possible the concern avoided the malls, conducting their business through the express companies.

The American Publishing Company established itself in Jersey City about two months ago, and the police say that they had the concern avoided the malls, conducting their business through the express companies.

and the young woman typewriter, who was very much frightened when told the object of the visit, It was decided that she was probably innocent of any intent to do wrong, and she was not arrested.

When the three other occupants of the offices came in they were placed under arrest. They took things coolly and entered a general denial to all charges. They said they were Arthur Bowen, 34 years old, of 15 West Ninety-eighth street; Charles V. Daly, 30 years old, of 142 Columbin Heights. Brooklyn, agent and solicitor, and Hugh Rogers. 29 years old, of 15 Myrtle avenue, Brooklyn, a clerk. The appearance of each was described by the officers as "smooth." All were locked up, pending an examination before United States Commissioner Rowe, which has been set for Wednesday morning, May 20.

Although the operations of the Jersey City combination were brought to light first, it is believed that the Brooklyn concern hed been somewhat longer at work, first at 333 Adams street and later in the Arbuckle building. On the surface their business was different from that of the Jersey City firm, being the collection of advertising and other claims. As a matter of fact, however, their method of work seems to have been exactly the same. As far as the Government officers and the police have been able to find out, the only claims collected by them were those that had never been authorized by the firms whose signatures were appended to the contracts.

Like the Jersey City men, members of the Brooklyn concern used a great variety of names, When they first opened the Adams street office they were known as H. M. Wallace and G. W. Wallace & Co. After moving to the Arbuckle building they became the United States Wholesale Business Directory Company, the United States Red Book Publishing Company, the United States taking any further action in the matter. Very respectfully.

The concern evidently had other dealings with Jonas Bros., for there was also found a receipt made out to Jonas Bros. on Feb. 12, 1895, bearing the stamped signature of "J. R. Wilson, casnier." Among other Philadelphia firms to whom Caswell & Co. sent letters were the Wanamaker Clothing Company and Chas. Ryder, both of whom are complainants.

Inspector Lewis said yesterday:
"It is known that the range of operations of these two concerns extended all over the country, and many of their victims will probably never be heard from, unless their names appear from an examination of the books of the so-called companies. It is known that the same game has been tried in other cities, and it is quite possible that this was not the central concern. It seems to have been the policy of these fellows to move about frequently, and we had occasion to believe that they were planning soon to leave Jersey City.

"It is impossible to say how much money they obtained, but it to very likely that their re-cipts averaged from $50 to $250 a day. The Brooklyn concern must have taken in about the same amount."

TO INCREASE THE DUTY ON SUGAR. A Bill Reported to the Senate to Meet the Proposed German Bounty. WASHINGTON, May 14.- In the Senate to-day the bill to protect commerce, which was introduced by Mr. Perkins (Rep., Cal.) on May 4, and which was then referred to the Committee on Commerce, was reported back from that committee by Mr. Caffery (Dem., La.), with a motion, which was agreed to that it be referred to the Finance Committee. Mr. Caffery explained and advocated the bill, which provides for the imposition of increased duties on foreign products on which bounty or premium is given by the Government of the country from which they come. The whole sugar infrom which they come. The whole sugar industry, Mr. Caffery said, was threatened with destruction by the proposed increase of bounty on sugar by the German Reichstag.

The sugar industry of the United States was already laboring under a great many burdens, and he thought it meet and proper that Congress should not permit such a great industry to be destroyed by the discriminating action of a foreign country. That saine discriminating action had already driven all cane sugar out of Continental Europe, and it would destroy in the United States an industry from which half

RILL TO RESTRICT IMMIGRATION. Senator Gibson Says that It Was Insti

WASHINGTON, May 14.- Two speeches were delivered in the Senate on the bill to restrict mmigration by the application of the illiteracy test. Mr. Gibson (Dem., Md.) spoke in opposition and Mr. Nelson (Rep., Minn.) in advocacy of the bill. Mr. Gibson attributed the instigation of the bill to the American Protective Association, which he characterized as a secret, oath-bound, red-lettered, left-handed, darkoath-bound, rest-stered, ier-handed, dark-lanterned organization. The real purpose of the bill was, he asserted, hostility to the Cath-olic Church. Mr. Nelson defended the bill on account of the necessity of restricting im-migration, and denied that the A. P. A. or hos-tility to the Catholic Church had anything to do with it. No action was taken on the bill, it having been taken up for the sole purpose of having those two speeches delivered.

CHAMBERS STREET When the Child's Mother, Who Is the Only Woman Sign Painter in Town, Ran Ont to Mim in Working Garb, the Paint on Her Gown Was Mistaken for Blood, Frank Martin, 10 years old, of 112 Park row, was knocked down and run over last night by a coach driven by August Fessler of 2 Griffith street, Jersey City. The accident occurred in Chambers street, opposite the East River Bank. The boy was playing on the street with a big Mewfoundland dog when he was run down and trampled by the coach horses. Two of the coach wheels passed over his right arm, causing a compound fracture and splintering the bones A passing truck driver, who saw the accident, jumped from his cart and carried the injured bor to the sidewalk. In the crowd that gathered was a little girl, who recognized the boy. She ran to the Martin home on Park row and shouted that little Frankle had been killed.

Mrs. Martin, the boy's mother, is a sign paint-er. She was at work in her shop when the news came. Without stopping to drop her brushes she rushed down stairs and ran down Park row to Chambers street. Two paint brushes stuck up from a big horn comb in her hair. She was attired in her shop garo, which was besmeared with red paint. People who were passing along Park row ran after the woman, attracted by her strange appearance and believing her gown to be spattered with blood. She found no difficulty in getting through the crowd, and picked up her boy in her arms. When the crowd grew bigger those who were the last to gather believed that both woman and child had been injured.

In the mean time a crowd or people, including truckmen and storekeepers, chased the coach that had run over the boy. The coach driver did not stop to learn the extent of the accident, but urged his horses on and tried to get away. The crowd stopped the horses at Broadway. Then Policeman Baxter came up and placed the coach driver under arrest. There were four women in the coach. They got out and walked home. The coachman was locked up in the Elizabeth street station. He said that the coach was owned by George Brockner of 00 Franklin street. Jersey City.

An ambulance took the injured boy to the Hudson Street Hospital. His mother wanted to fellow, but Surgeon Johnson, who responded to the ambulance call, told her the how had not been seriously injured and explained that he would be all right after a night's stay in the hospital.

the ambulance call, told her the boy had not been seriously injured and explained that he would be all right after a night's stay in the hospital.

Upon being assured that the boy's condition was not serious. Mrs. Martin returned to her paint shop and renewed her work, as she had to finish seven signs which she had promised to customers for to-day.

When seen last night by a Sun reporter she was wielding her paint brish in her little shop, which is over a Chinese laundry at 112 Park row. Tears rolled down her cheeks as she told the story of the accident to her child.

"I am so worried," she said, "but they told me that he'll be all right to-morrow. I was at work painting this hotel sign when I was told that Frankie was run over on Chambers street. I just ran out in my shop clothes, all covered with paint. My boy recognized me, and talked to me until they took him away in the ambulance. Then I came back here to work and sent my husband over to the hospitual to see how Frankie was getting along.

"I have seven signs to finish, and I will have to work nearly all night to complete them. I have been a sign painter and letterer for the past thirteen years, ever since I've been married. I learned the trade from my husband, and I now work from 5 o'clock in the morning until 12 every night painting signs. I do all sorts of sign painting, gliding, and lettering. They say I'm the only woman sign painter in New York. The shop where I'm working now is mine. My husband has a shop of his own in the rear. He was out collecting bills to-day when my boy was injured, and when he got back I sent him over to the hospital. I would like to go there and see Frankie, but these signs must be finished on time."

Mrs. Martin is a good-looking woman, 35 Mrs. Martin is a good-gooking woman, 35 years old. She wears her long hair rolled up in a knot and fastened with a big horn comb, which she uses as a resting place for her paint brushes. When seen at work she was attired in a black and red plaid gown, and she had two paint brushes resting on the comb, while she worked with a third brush on an uncompleted sign set up between three kerosene oil lamps.

When Mr. Gorman (bem., Md.) referred to-day to that unanimous consent agreement, Mr. Mitchell (Rep., Or.), in charge of the resolution, admitted the correctness of the statement, but added, suggestively, that what the particular final vote would be on would be determined then. Mr. Pratt (Rep., Conn.) made an argument in favor of Mr. Dubont's right to the seat.

BARNARD COLLEGE'S $100,000. It Was Given by Mrs. Van Wyck Brincher, boff as a Memorial for Her Father,

The identity of the unknown benefactress of Barnard College, who promised the instituion a gift of $100,000 last year on condition that the $100,000 mortgage remaining on the site for the new college at Morningside Park be paid before May 10 of this year, became known yesterday. She is Mrs. Van Wyck Brinckerhoff of Hastings, Westchester county. The announcement that it was Mrs. Brinckerhoff who had made this magnificent offer was made by her agent in this city, E. E. Androvette of 218 Fulton street.

It will be remembered how the trustees of Barnard College hustled around on Saturday last to raise the $23,000 necessary to make up the amount of the mortgage on the college property. They only had a few hours remaining in which to do it and fuifil the conditions on which the gift from Mrs. Brinckerhoff depended, but they did it, and Mrs. Brinckerhoff sent them a letter of congratulation on Monday telling them that she stood ready to make god her effer. Up to that time only one of the trustees of the college knew who the donor of this large sum was. They had been working in the dark, having nothing but the assurance of Mr. Androvette, Lawyer F. S. Walt of 10 Wall street, and one or two others, that the $100,000 would be forthcoming if they succeeded in raising a like amount in a year. last to raise the $23,000 necessary to make up the $100,000 would be forthcoming it they succeeded in raising a like amount in a year.

It was Mrs. Brinckerhoff's wish that her name should not come out, and her friends have kept the secret faithfully. She gives the money as a memorial to her late husband and to her father, William H. Hoople, who died in this city in June, 1893.

Mrs. Brinckerhoff's motive in giving the money to Barnard is not known. She is not a college woman herself, and so far as is known has no college affiliations. Her agent, Mr. Androvette, said yesterday that he knew absolutely nothing about the reasons why Mrs. Brinckerhoff selected Barnard for her gift. When a reperter called at Mrs. Brinckerhoff's home at Hastings last night he was told that she was in this city with friends at 19 East Eightieth street. It was impossible to see her there last night.

Van Wyck Brinckerhoff was a merchant in the East Indian trade, and had an office at 47 Cedar street, this city. He died here on Feb. $2, 1892. Mr. Hoople was a well-known leather merchant of this city, and accumuated a large fortune.

The Weather.

In the latter district the drought was partially broken. The storm is apparently moving eastward, and the chances are for showers to-day in the Middle States. It was cooler west of the Misissippi and slightly warmer east of that river. In this city the day was cloudy, with a good crops; average humidity, 87 per cent.; wind south-

MASS MEETING OF BICYCLE RID-ERS AT MADISON SQUARE GARDEN.

New Jersey Wheelmen to Form a Good Road Association-Long Distance Road Racing - A State Bucing Circuit, A meeting of the Good Roads Association of Hudson county will be held this evening at 111 Belmont avenue, Jersey City Heights. The ob ject of the meeting is to form a permanent as-sociation of horsemen and wheelmen interested in road improvement. A committee, consisting of F. G. Woelbert, C. V. Tuthill, C. F. Seymour, U. F. Roelker, and J. W. Laws, will present a report outlining the objects of the organization. The officers of the New York City Consulate of the League of American Wheelmen expect a large attendance of bicycle riders at the Madson Square Garden this evening upon the occasion of the wheelmen's mass meeting, called for the purpose of adopting resolutions for presentation to the Board of Aldermen, asking that new regulations be adopted to compel drivers of vehicles to sound a warning when approaching bleycle riders, street corners, &c. The Consulate also propose to discuss the question of sprinkling the asphalted streets. Junior Consul Ottolongul said yesterday: "In a talk with the superintendent of the company which sprinkles the streets. I was assured that his company is anxious to do all in its power for wheelmen. He proposes leaving the streets paved with asphalt dry along the centre, and on Eighth avenue, which has been the greatest source of complaint, to leave a dry strip two feet wide each side of the car track. Similar provision will be made on Madison avenue. He will at tend our mass meeting to-night for the purpose of discussing the question with a view to the adoption of some plan satisfactory to all parties." Chief Consul Robert Gentle of the New Jersey division of the League of, American Wheelmen in a talk with THE SUN reporter yesterday, said that the Executive Committee has decided to division of the League of, American Wheelmen, in a talk with The Sur reporter yesterday, said that the Executive Committee has decided to allow the Associated Cycling Clubs of New Jersey to handle the State division meet this year. It will likely be held during the latter part of June or early in July. The cycle path from Trenton to Asbury Park, Mr. Gentlesays, will be formally opened on July 4, but no steps have been taken to have any special demonstration upon the occasion. The wheelmen of Union county Intend to construct a nine-mile path, connecting with the Trenton-Asbury Park road, leading to Lakewood. The New Jersey division of the L. A. W. is now in a strong financial condition, having $1,500 in its treasury and rapidly adding to its membership.

Long distance road racing continues to be popular in England. Several attempts will be made this season to lower the twenty-four hour road record. The London Cyclist says: "Although the twenty-four hour record for the road stands in the Road Records Association's ledger at 397 miles, it is known that last year the great record-breaker Holbein came very near accomplishing 400 miles, missing his fourth century by little more than half a mile. The total distance was, however, inexorably perged back by the committee, because the unlucky rider, after so grand and unprecedented a ride, had in the last few remaining minutes of the time been led twice over the same stretch of road. The traverse of any section of highway more than twice is contrary to regulations, and consequently one-third of the triple covered distance was deducted from the distance. To have been so near and yet to have failed was surely chagrin enough for an even more imperturbable man than Montague Holbein, and consequently in completions against time once more.

"Holbein is confident that with anything like luck, backed by the experience of the fourteen twenty-four hours on the road will occupy a niche in the temple of fame, something equal to the man who is the first to put 400 miles inside twenty-

The '96 Meet Club, which will have charge of the national inset of the League of American Wheelmen at Louisvilie in August, will inaugurate a number of changes in national meet customs. That bedraggled spectacle known as the "annual parade" will be left off the programme. In its stead there will be a parade of uniformed clubs, well drilled and well dressed, no club having less than ten members present in uniform being permitted to enter the procession. This will insure a handsome parade, not too long, and will do away with that straggling line of weary and bored-looking men and women awheel that has been a hugaboo for several years past at national meets of the L. A. W. The uniformed club idea will prove popular with wheelmen and visitors. Handsome prizes will be offered for the club having the largest number of riders in line, the best uniformed club, and the best drilled club. Already a number of organizations are preparing to go to the meet.
